SLATES.

We notice that the modest and accommodating correspondent who annually devotes himself to the voluntary task of "fixing things" nicely beforehand for the incoming Legislature, has already established his philanthropic headquarters at the State Capital and has informed the Portland Press just what he has decided that the "Great and General Court" had better do, so soon as it shall assemble. By dint of lying awake o'nights and recklessly squandering his time upon the public affairs, he has nearly succeeded in effecting an organization for both branches of the Legislature and has entirely relieved members from all the trouble of discussing candidates by preparing a full list of State officials which needs only the formality of a ballot. With all due consideration for this public spirited personage, who, under the generic title of "slate maker" has served the State so many years, we venture to suggest that the Legislature may choose to exercise a little volition in this business, if only for the novelty of the thing, and that the "slate" so kindly prepared may be "smashed" after all into unrecognizable flinders. So far as the Attorney Generalship is concerned, we object to any "pre emption claims." There are candidates from this locality who will be ably supported by their friends and the office will not be bestowed until the Legislature has made its choice in due form and upon proper consideration, between the contestants. We think the members-elect amply qualified to attend to this business without instruction, and hope they will relieve the perennial Augusta correspondent" of his arduous though unimposed labors in guiding the destinies of the State.

There is but a single line of dispatches from Paris this afternoon, but it is a line of great importance. It announces an excited and flat Bourse, and says that Rentes have suddenly fallen from 77 to 52. This is portentous of the coming revolutions.—[Commercial.

How closely and anxiously our neighbor must have watched the Paris Bourse! The report referred to, however, did not indicate the so marked a decline as stated above. It did speak of a "Rentes declined to 52fr." Our contemporary, who quotes French to make its editorials interesting, must be aware that "fr" does not always stand for francs in that language, and ought to know that the quotation simply reported a decline of francs and 77 centimes.

The Boston Traveller, which regarded the acceptance of generously proffered aid for the suffering as "a personal degradation" to its city, and which pointed its rebuke to Mayor Gaston by assuring the public that "the fire has caused no suffering which the ordinary charities of the city are not able and only too willing to remove," is now constrained to confess ethnorily —

We understand that money comes in slowly to the relief committee, to the surprise and regret of many people."

MAJOR GENERAL MCDOWELL. Irvin McDowell, senior Brigadier General, has been appointed Major General to fill the vacancy in the list caused by the death of Gen. Meade. General McDowell was graduated at West Point in 1838, standing twenty three in a class of fifty five. Appointed brevet Second Lieutenant, First Artillery, July 1, 1838, Second Lieutenant, July 7, 1838. First Lieutenant, October 7, 1842, brevet Captain, for gallant and meritorious conduct at Buena Vista, February 23, 1847, brevet Captain and A A G, March 3, 1847, brevet Major and A A G, March 3, 1853, Brigadier General, May 17, 1861. He was made a Major General of Volunteers March 14, 1862, and appointed brevet Major General in the regular army, March 13, 1865, for gallant and meritorious services at Cedar Mountain, Va. He is now ordered to the command of the Department of the South vacant since the death of Halleck—Geoerge Hancock, now in command of the Department of the West, will take General McDowell's place as Commander of the Department of the East.

AMERICAN COMMERCE AND SHIPBUILD. A Washington special says The President's message will contain a strong recommendation to Congress to take active and effective measures for the revival of American commerce and shipbuilding. No particular method of relief will be suggested, the subject being earnestly commended to the serious attention and legislation. The report of the tariff part of last session, remit the duties on shipbuilding materials, has not proved to be the marked results which were anticipated, and it appears evident that more positive aid must be afforded to restore American commerce to its former position.

It is a well known fact in Washington that the advocates of the annexation of San Domingo look to the accomplishment of their project through direct action in Congress.

The official returns of the election in Massachusetts, show that Governor W B Washburn received 126,000 votes, and Frank W Bird 39,000. There were 2254 scattering votes which makes Governor Washburn's plurality over all 74,020.

It is said that Alexander H Stephens as goes to succeed Joshua Hill as United States Senator from Georgia. It is believed, however that Gen John B Gordon will be elected in that place.

BANQUET TO MINISTER WASHBURNE. A complimentary banquet was given last night at the Fremont House Chicago, to Hon E B Washburne, U S Minister to France by a number of his personal friends of that city. About one hundred guests were present, among whom were Gov Oglesby, Senator Logan, Mayor Medill, ex Gov Bross, Gen H Race Porter and other distinguished persons. In response to a toast Mr Was burne made a few remarks in which he only politely alluded was a denial of the report that he was a candidate for United States Senator and a graceful declination of that honor which he said was fairly "won" by Governor Oglesby.

George Potter of London, the celebrated workingmen's advocate, in a speech recently made at the Congregational Union in Nottingham, claimed that the English Sunday was the great secret of England's success, and believed that it should be preserved as a day of rest and worship. He advocated the opening of picture galleries and museums on the Saturday half holidays and on week-day evenings instead of on Sundays. He feared English workmen would find that if the continental Sunday were introduced among them they would soon have to labor on that day.

A GOOD MOVE. It is announced that the French Minister of Agriculture and Commerce in France has just issued an order which entitles him to the gratitude of every individual resident of the Republic, and will materially lessen the bill of mortality in France. It is for the analysis by competent chemists of wines and other beverages, and all sorts of empirical preparations, such as pills, powders, cosmetics and patent medicines. Under the Empire stringent laws were enacted against the adulteration of food, and a year ago the English Parliament followed the example.

THE WALL STREET PIRATES.

In an article upon the recent stock gambling operations in Wall street, in which the notorious Jay Gould and other equally ill-omened birds of prey have again been brought into disreputable prominence, the N. Y. Times remarks that the chief victims are generally the small capitalists from outside, who persist in believing, against the evidence of their senses, that financial contests in Wall street are conducted on principles of fair play, and who impoverish themselves and their families by a wild indulgence in a form of gambling which public opinion has not yet pronounced disgraceful. It is the wives and children who suffer most by the "masterly operations" of the leaders of the market. It goes on to say.

There is no reason why a man should not be allowed to invest his savings in a good security without the fear of being robbed. And, as a general rule, it is good securities which the "great financiers" choose as the basis of their schemes. They get control of a large part of the stock, they have some millions of money by them to enable them to carry on their plots, and all of a sudden the stock is sent up at a rate which scares even the shrewdest observer of the market. In this kind of work Vanderbilt, Drew, Fisk, Gould, and some others have excelled during the past few years. Many people imagined that Jay Gould was crippled for further mischief. The occurrences of last week undeceived them. Gould is what is called a "bold operator," and he has the command of a large amount of capital. He could probably create a panic in almost any description of railroad securities by two or three weeks of preparation. In the early part of last week, only about half a dozen men—if so many—had the faintest suspicion of the movements by which Northwestern was to be sent up from 86 to 130. In this instance, some men who generally manage to come out of these contests with flying colors were badly damaged. One speculator lost at least $450,000, and it is said that Daniel Drew is liable to a loss of $2,500,000. Henry N Smith is "short" forty thousand shares, so that his losses will be greater even than Drew's. We cannot affect to have any sympathy for these men, and least of all with Drew. He has been one of the curses of the market for years past. If he has now received such a blow as will result in his being driven from the street altogether, no one will be sorry for him. Of this, however, there is no hope. Most of the other operators who have suffered have only received the same punishment which they inflicted upon their neighbors a little while ago.

It may be thought hard to say so, but we do not see in what way these transactions differ from other forms of swindling which are generally held to be ruinous to any fair reputation. These speculators live by cheating each other, and as a matter of course they are not averse to swindling the general public also while they are about it. It is instructive to notice that the Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, Augustus Schell, has taken a leading part in the Northwestern pirateering scheme. His associates generally are equally indifferent to public opinion. Daniel Drew, for instance, does not care a fig for what people think about him or what the newspapers say. He holds the honest people of the world to be a pack of fools, and you might as well try to scratch the back of a rhinoceros with a pin as to reach his mind—if he has one—by preaching about morals. When he has been unusually lucky in his trade of fleecing other men, he settles accounts with his conscience by subscribing toward a new chapel, or attending a prayer-meeting. His life may not be a good example of the effect of religious professions upon the character, but as a sharper he is undeniably a success. This time he has been made to smart, and by another sharper whose name is only too familiar to the public. Jay Gould ought long ago to have been studying arithmetic in a jail, but he is still at liberty to enjoy the reputation of a "brilliant financier." We do not see how he evil is to be reached, for men cannot well be prevented from gambling in stocks with their own or other people's money, but at least we may hope that these "mammoth speculators" will be and by come to be held in the same estimation by the public as other pickpockets.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Snow and sleet were falling in New York Tuesday.

Steamer Pictou, from St John, Newfoundland, the 10th inst, supposed lost, has reached Louisburg, Cape Breton.

The cashier of the Union Bank of Marietta, Ohio, telegraphs that the bank is all right and will resume business in a few days.

S B Keyes & Co, bankers, of Cincinnati, have suspended in consequence of indirect losses in the late corner in Wall st, New York.

The steamer H. N Shreve was burned at Chester, Illinois, on Saturday night, while coaling. No lives were lost.

Steamship Malta, from Boston for Liverpool, which put into Halifax with a broken shaft, has been repaired and will sail soon.

Dispatches from Berlin to the London Times says that forty landed proprietors will probably be elevated to the peerage to qualify them for seats in the upper House of the Prussian Diet.

The last Sunday meeting at Hyde Park, London, was a failure. Only 400 persons were present, and an irruption of roughs broke up the meeting.

Steamship Baltic rescued the officers and crew, 19 in number, of ship Assyria, from Quebec for Plymouth, Eng, abandoned water logged, on the 20th instant.

Steam tug Washington and a canal boat in tow were sunk by an unknown steamship in New York harbor, Tuesday. The crews swam ashore on Staten Island.

F. Martinez and D Baptiste have been arrested in New Orleans charged with insuring the life of the nephew of the latter for $15,000 and then drowning him.

A dispatch states that five persons prominently connected with the movement to hold a radical meeting in Rome, Sunday, were arrested and will be tried for high treason.

Two young men named Gallaher and Hill were blown to atoms by an explosion of nitroglycerine at Yonkers, N Y, Monday, and several others were injured. They were throwing stones at the cans in which the explosive was stored.

Propeller Mary Ward, from Sarnia for Collingwood, Ontario, went ashore on a reef between the latter place and Thornburg, Monday night, in a gale. Eight men were lost in attempting to land, all the rest on board were rescued.

Three hunters and trappers named Andrew Rasfie, Herman Rashe and Herman Meyers, were found dead at the old Government Camp, about forty miles north of McPherson station, Kansas, on the Loup Fork, a few days ago. They had apparently been murdered by white men. A party of soldiers have gone from the North Platte to bring in the bodies.

With reference to dispatches from London intimating that the U S. steamers Colorado and Yantic were going to Zanzibar to co-operate with the British expedition against the slave trade, it was stated at the Navy Department that the last orders given to the Colorado required her simply to leave Singapore so as to arrive in New York in March, and the Yantic was ordered to touch at Zanzibar merely on her way to join the Asiatic fleet.

A Brunswick (Ga.) dispatch states that a woman about 50 years of age, supposed to be insane, has been seen for several weeks past wandering in that vicinity near the sea coast. Efforts have been made by the overseers of the poor to arrest her, without effecting their object. Her hair is cut short and is partly gray. To a person who saw her a few days since she refused to give any information as to her former residence, but spoke of Lewiston.

The record of the District Attorney's office in New York city for the past three years shows that out of 118 cases of homicide only forty two convictions have been obtained, and that in fourteen other cases no decision whatever has been arrived at. These facts alone are sufficient to account for the many murders by which the city has been disgraced. There can be no safety for society so long as only one murderer in three suffers any punishment.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

Eliza Cook, the English poetess, is very ill and her recovery is regarded as impossible.

Horace Greeley is at the residence of M. Stuart in Tarrytown, N Y.

Senator Morton has been tendered a banquet in Cincinnati.

Senator Sumner arrived in New York Friday, on steamer Baltic.

Hon. E. D. Morgan has written a letter declining to be considered a candidate for Senator from New York. This leaves the field open for the re-election of Senator Conkling.

The total vote of Kansas, according to the official returns was about 103,000; an increase of 42,000 in two years. This indicates an increase in population of over 100,000 in a year which is believed to be unprecedented in the history of any other State.

Edward Harris, probably the largest woolen manufacturer in the country, and one of the oldest, died at Providence, R. I, Sunday afternoon. His energy and activity have made Woonsocket the center of a great community of woolen mills, extending from Providence to Worcester. It was but a day or two before that the body of his son, who recently died in Germany, was received at the home stead for interment.

BRITISH COMMERCE. The English Board of Trade returns show that the total value of imports for the quarter ended on the 30th of September, was $485,798,735, the returns for the corresponding quarter of last year being $426,481,175. The aggregate value for the nine months was $1,313,373,370, as against $1,208 909,505 in the corresponding period. The exports, also, show a very satisfactory development of the national trade, amounting for the nine months to $931,573,310, or $121,673,415 in excess of the exports for the corresponding period of last year. The increase, as compared with the returns for 1870, is still more marked.

AN ENORMOUS HERD. A dispatch from Fort Dodge says that the construction train on the Atchinson, Leavenworth & Santa Fe Railway passed through a herd of Buffalo, on Monday, covering an extent of country 10 miles long by two miles wide.

There are more than forty thousand of these safes in daily use, in the various Banking and Business Houses throughout the country. After the great Chicago fire, a Committee of gentlemen of Boston visited the scene of the great conflagration, to ascertain what safes had withstood the test of the flames the best, and their testimony was in favor of the Morris & Ireland Safe.

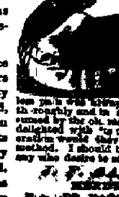
The Morrison Engine!



Having used one of these machines for nearly two months, I feel that less words cannot be said in its praise. It does its work capitally in every respect, and I have had to find the patient who has been outdoor any one day, which is the case with many engines by the old plan, it does more or less job's with little importance. It being so much cheaper than a man, it should be generally used by the old people, it does away with the care of a fire, and is ready at any moment to do its work. I cannot speak too highly of it, and I feel delighted with its use, and would not return to the old method. I should be pleased to exhibit its action to any who desire to see it.

TWEED AGAIN.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer this morning the case of Tweed was carried over to Monday next, when he will be called to plead to the indictments.

Various speculiable money transactions of Mr. Perry reported missing, lead the police to believe that he has absconded with considerable money and search in this vicinity is suspended.

HEAVY DEFALCATION.

The Brooklyn Eagle says that the defalcation reported to-day in Wall street is reported to be on the part of a young man named Allen C. Bush, a clerk or junior partner in the House of Kidder, Pearce & Co. The loss to new firm is variously stated at $70,000, $75,000 and $100,000.

WASHINGTON.

THE "HERALD" GUESSING AT THE MESSAGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. A Washington special of the Herald says that the President-elect will read to the Cabinet a complete draft of his message. He has yielded this year, as he did last year, to the advice of experienced politicians, and changed its tenor. So far as relates to the South he gives that section pleasing mention, praises the wisdom of the civil rights laws, alludes to the disappearance of lawlessness in the South, as well as good behavior at the polls in November elections, and hopes for a continuance of this condition of affairs. Although he has no special recommendation to make in behalf of the South, he desires that Congress shall do whatever it deems wisest in the interest of the united States, reiterated the previously expressed sentiment, that he has no policy to enforce against the wishes of the people.

The country is felicitated on the accomplishment of the Treaty of Washington. Cuba is lightly passed over; the case of Dr. Howard receives but brief mention; Mexico does not receive a large share of attention; our relations with different foreign nations are disposed of in the usual brief paragraphs; the coming Vienna Exposition is commended; the Philadelphia Centennial is also spoken of. Our credit at home and abroad, the efficiency of the management of our foreign and home policy, and the prosperity of the nation make the substance of the balance of the message.

AN ALABAMA CLAIM LOBBY.

Washington dispatches state that a large lobby interest has developed relative to the collection of Claims under the decision of the Geneva Tribunal.

THE REPORTS

of the different bureaus under the Secretary of the Interior are satisfactory. The Land Office business has all been brought up to date. The Pension Bureau has very few complaints of disturbance and the amount needed for the next fiscal year is $20,480,000. The Patent Office report shows that the fees of the year were $77,400 in excess of the expenditures and the Commissioner recommends a new general patent law and separation from the Interior Department.

OUR COAST DEFENCES—THE TORPEDO SYSTEM.

The report of the Chief of engineers of the Army, say the trials with torpedoes at Willett's point have been a marked success, and investigation have gone so far as to enable the Department to pronounce upon the special system on which it will arrange the details of the post as well as the methods of handling and operating the torpedoes. The total cost of application of this powerful auxiliary to the defence of our coast will be about $2,000,000. An estimate submitted of $300,000 for the torpedo defence of some of the most important harbors. The report also sets forth in detail the progress made and anticipated upon the several works along the coast. Great attention is also given to the improvements on the River and Harbor fortifications and Inland defences, etc.

THE SUPREME COURT

adjourned to-day for the term.

QUARTER-MASTER GENERAL'S DISBURSEMENTS.

The third Auditor of the Treasury states that the disbursements of General Robert Allen as Assistant Quarter-master General, between April 1861 and August 1865, amounted to the enormous sum of $111,857,142, of which but $2,077, the result of clerical errors, is all that is unaccounted for.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

A rough draft of the President's annual message, though not quite finished, was read to the Cabinet to-day, all the members being present. It will be somewhat, perhaps one-fifth, longer than last year's message. In addition to two copies to be sent to Congress, two will be made in manifold for the use of the city press and for telegraphing. In respect to the question asked by the writer of this dispatch the President remarked that he had no objection to saying that the message would not show a change of policy on his part, as his endeavor was now as it had been in the past to perform to the extent of his ability and in such a manner as would best serve the interests of the country. He was not certain he would recommend to Congress to the two or three hundred persons excluded by recent legislation, but if he should it would be with a proposed condition that the beneficiaries merely take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States. Congress, however, had ample authority in the premises, and could act with regard to the matter without a repetition of his views on the subject contained in his former annual message. He saw no necessity, as had been asserted, for making a declaration of towards the South than, for such a declaration towards the North, as he sought as President under the obligation of his oath to execute the duties of his position without favor or partiality, in accordance with the law. He would in his Message endorse such recommendations of legislation as may be presented by the heads of the several Departments, and which experience had shown to be necessary. He would recommend to Congress that action would be taken with regard to

HIS ENTIRE DUTY

AN EXTENSION OF AMNESTY

THE AWARD MADE BY THE ARBITRATION.

The money will be paid by Great Britain to the Department of State and be deposited in the Treasury. Of course it cannot be drawn therefrom except in accordance of the law for the purpose specified.

In the course of conversation on the subject of the President said that while competitive examinations were desirable, he did not think it right that office should be given to enemies of the administration to the exclusion of friends. He was now examining taking up the cases singly, with a view to conclusions upon them. He intended to pardon Colonel Bowerman, who about eighteen months ago was convicted of embezzlement while an officer in the Baltimore Custom House. He added that in addition to other reasons Colonel Bowerman was a brave and faithful officer during the late war.

A MONSTROUS SWINDLE—PRECIOUS STONES "PLANTED" TO GULL THE CREDULOUS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. A San Francisco dispatch states that investigation of the so-called diamond mines revealed a stupendous attempt at fraud. In the vicinity of Table Rock diamonds and rubies were found on the surface and in crevices; but in every instance of a "find" there was evidence that the soil had been tampered with. In crevices where there were no traces of the work of man no evidences of the existence of precious stones were discovered. Some diamonds were found in what were evidently artificial holes.

THE MAJORITY REPORT of the committee on the address was read in the Assembly this afternoon. It is a strong indictment against the Radical party, and insists on the establishment of a responsible Ministry as a means of fighting Radicalism. The majority of the committee asked for the immediate consideration of the report. The minority moved that it be postponed until Thursday, and the motion was carried 358 to to 332. The result is regarded as a very

FAVORABLE INDICATION FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

The Presidents supporters in the Assembly believe that this vote virtually and that a similar majority is sure for the Government on Thursday.

THE KHEDIVES' EXPEDITION. A London dispatch says the Khedive's Expedition consists of 5,000 men and is commanded by Purdy Boy. It goes to Zanzibar in transports with the ostensible intention of joining Dr. Livingstone, and of co-operating with him if agreeable, otherwise to act independently in solving the problem of the sources of the Nile under Egyptian colors. It is however doubtful whether the expedition is intended to join Dr. Livingstone, meet Sir Samuel Baker, or open a new line of operations in Abyssinia.

The Pacific Railroad thinks it can defy the snows, this winter, even if they are as severe as those of last. Over the Union Pacific it raised its track for 100 miles from Omaha to Seven Mile, so that the winds will keep it clear. Snow sheds over the track more than half the distance from Omaha to Ogden. The snow fences have been extended, and the snow fighting force increased. The Company feel confident that they can keep the road open.

—Thanksgiving Day to-morrow.

—Comfortable weather yesterday.

—Social Assembly in Music Hall this evening.

—Snow commenced falling between 11 and 12 o'clock last night.

—Lumbering teams are going into the woods in large numbers.

—This week will nearly finish for the season operations in lumber at this port.

—A large flock of wild geese flew over the city to the southward about 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

—The creditors of the late S. H. Dale and the firm of S. H. Dale & Co., are receiving a first dividend of 50 per cent. this week.

—Ducks have made good preparation for Thanksgiving, and look quite positive, one of the inherent qualities of the quack.

—Thanksgiving Balls will be given Thursday evening at the Chiputneticook Lake House at Vanceboro, and at Gates' Hotel in Springfield.

—Cambridge firemen are still hard at work on the Washington street ruins in Boston, endeavoring to find the body of Mr. Wm. S. Frazier.

—N. K. Sawyer, Esq., former editor and proprietor of the Ellsworth American, has with his wife, started for Florida, where they will spend the winter.

—There is great mortality among the hens and chickens, but it isn't owing to the "Panathlinososdelnosornicephalitis" so much as it is to the Thanksgivingdinnerbusiness.

—Turkeys are quite plenty on the market, but are not looking as plump and nice as that bird is expected to be this season of the year; however, plenty of "stuffing" will fix them for to-morrow's business.

—The bell on the Hammond street church was somehow "thrown out of gear" while being rung for the fire alarm last evening, and in consequence could not be rung at 9 o'clock as usual.

—A settee, on which some of the "solid men" of our city were seated in City Hall last evening, was unfortunately rheumatic in the legs, and deposited its whole load on the floor, much to the amusement of the audience.

—Dr. Preble, City Physician, who is still suffering from the effects of the accident at the fire in West Market Square, has gone to Boston and New York to visit the principal hospitals before resuming his practice in this city.

—A lad about a dozen years old, named Murray, was knocked down and considerably bruised by one of the hose carriages of No. 3 engine company, which was run on the Exchange street sidewalk returning from the fire yesterday afternoon.

—Jesse Wadleigh, Esq., one of the first settlers of Oldtown, and one of the most esteemed citizens of that town, died yesterday at the age of about 75 years. He had for a long time past been extensively engaged in the lumber business, and was widely known and much respected.

—Dr. Henry Hill Searey of this city, died at his residence on Hammond st. yesterday morning, after a long and painful illness. Though a young man, he had displayed marked ability in his chosen profession, and he leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his untimely death.

—We learn that Rev. James Williams of Oldtown died yesterday morning at the age of about sixty years. Mr. Williams has been pastor of the Baptist church in Oldtown for a year past, but a few weeks ago resigned the pastorate, on account of failing health. He was much respected and beloved.

—Mrs. E. Schember has recently returned from Germany with a large assortment of worsteds, embroideries, and other articles in that line, which ladies who are contemplating making holiday gifts, will do well to examine. Her advertisement in another column gives a partial list of articles she has for sale.

DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE. The Oldtown Dramatic Club will give one of their popular entertainments at the Town Hall in that town to-morrow evening, when they will present the drama, "La Tour de Nesle." After the play there will be a social hop in the same hall, for which music will be furnished by Peaks' quadrille band of this city.

SLIGHT FIRE. Fire was discovered about half past 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the stable of Patrick Gallagher, at the corner of French and Washington streets, and a general alarm was given which called out the Fire Department, but the fire was extinguished with buckets before the engines arrived. Damage slight. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

A RARE EVENT. Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Cochrane celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding last evening, and a small party of relatives and friends who were present at the celebration of their golden wedding ten years ago, gathered at their residence on Charles st. to congratulate them upon the occasion. It is very rare to find a couple who can boast of sixty years of wedded life, and the occasion is worthy of note.

LUMBER RAFTED. We learn from F. P. Chapman, Esq., boom master for the Penobscot Lumbering Association, that during the season just closed, the crew at their booms rafted 216,841,430 feet of lumber—the largest season's work ever done for the Association. The booms are all hauled in and the rafts and scows laid up for the winter. About twenty million feet of lumber will be wintered this year. Last year one hundred and ninety million feet were rafted, and forty-five million wintered.

CULINARY TRIUMPH. A gentle young Bridegroom on the East side, in order to prepare for Thanksgiving, took his mother-in-law Monday night, and "basted" her, and then to fit her for the oven, emptied the contents of the flour barrel on the floor and rolled her in it—disturbing the peace of a "Christening" occasionally held by whom. The old lady says she will "cast his corpse" the first if she gets an opportunity, and Mamma with the baby, in her arms, says he is not fit to live. Well, in short, the neighbors have kept the good news secret.

VOTE IS 90,231. For Grant, 61,208; Greeley, 29,023. Grant's majority, 32,185. The following towns and plantations failed to make returns: Frenchville, Grant Isle, Eagle Lake, Macwahoc, Reed, No. 11 R. 1, St. Francis, St. John, Glenwood, Oxbow, in Aroostook county; Dallas and Sandy River, in Franklin county; Southport, in Lincoln county; Brownfield, Franklin and Lincoln Pl. in Oxford county; Hudson and Pattagumpus, in Penobscot county; Bowerbank, in Piscataquis county; Bowroin, in Sagadahoc county; Mayfield and Dead River, in Somerset county.

DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT. The second dramatic entertainment by the senior class of the High School, in City Hall last evening, was as fully attended as the first, the hall being filled to its utmost capacity by a first-class audience. The dramas, "Our Wife" and "The Little Rebel" were performed even better than on the previous evening, and the frequent and hearty applause which rewarded the young ladies and gentlemen taking part, showed a thorough appreciation on the part of the audience. We understand that in compliance with the urgent request of a large number of our citizens, the entertainment will be repeated on Thursday evening, when we are sure there will be a crowd to witness it.

MR. TORRENS' COURSE OF ENTERTAINMENTS, so well opened by the lectures of Mrs. Livermore and Professor Morse, will afford our citizens an opportunity of hearing some of the best vocalists in New England at the concert next Monday evening. Mrs. Houston West, the favorite soprano, Mrs. C. A. Barry, the contralto, whose ability is well appreciated here, Mr. F. C. Packard, tenor, who needs no introduction to a Bangor audience, and Mr. M. W. Whitney, the eminent basso, will all appear at the concert, with a fine pianist. With such an array of talent, the concert cannot fail of being a success. The sale of single tickets to this entertainment will commence at Bugbee & Co.'s bookstore to-day, and we anticipate a rush for them.

BURNED TO DEATH. Last Friday noon, Mrs. Chas. M. Reed of Clinton Gore, stepped into one of her neighbor's a few minutes, leaving her two little girls, one five, the other three, alone at home. The oldest locked the door on the inside, and went to putting wood into the stove, and in so doing her clothing caught fire and burned nearly off. Some people passing in the road heard her screams, and looking up, saw her at the window, her clothes in flames. They burst in the door, and took her to the pump, where they put out the fire that was still burning in the clothing around her waist, neck and wrists. Physicians were called, but could only make her as comfortable as possible for the time, as there was no chance for her to live. She died at midnight.

CONSOLIDATION. At a meeting of the stockholders and Directors of the E. & N. A. Railway Company in Maine, held at their office on Washington street, yesterday, the alterations in the articles of consolidation with the Western Extension Company, made by the stockholders of the latter company at their meeting on the 21st inst., were accepted. The alterations do not affect the general terms of consolidation, the most important being the substitution of L. R. Burrill, Esq., of St. John for Lewis Carvell, Esq. as one of the Directors of the consolidated company. Gideon Mayo, Esq., one of the Directors of the present Maine Company, tendered his resignation, which was accepted. On Wednesday the newly elected Directors of the consolidated company—Messrs. George K. Jewett, Noah Woods, James W. Emery, Arad Thompson, Charles P. Stetson, M. S. Drummond, S. F. Hersey and William Flowers, from the Maine Company, and Messrs. Alex. Jardine, Thomas R. Jones, James R. Ruel, Robert Robinson and E. R. Burpee, from the New Brunswick company will meet for the purpose of choosing officers.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT. About 5 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. Edward W. Gray, who has charge of the gang saws in the mill of Messrs. Babb & Strickland at Bradley, went into the mill to make preparations for the day crew to work, and was standing in front of the clock holding up his lanterns to see what time it was, when he was struck on the head by some person unknown who had crept up behind him. The blow, which was evidently inflicted with a heavy club, felled Mr. Gray to the floor, but did not deprive him of consciousness, and he shouted loudly for help. His assailant continued beating him about the head and shoulders for some minutes, until fearing, probably, that Mr. Gray's shouts would arouse people in a neighboring house, he suddenly decamped, just in season to escape capture by a number of men coming into the mill. Two long gashes were cut in Mr. Gray's scalp, and his head, shoulders and arms were shockingly bruised, and it will probably be some time before he is able to resume his work. He did not recognize the ruffian who assaulted him, and no clew has has yet been found to his identity. Mr. Gray pays off the workmen in the mill and it is known that he usually has, near pay-day, a large amount of money with him, so that it is supposed that robbery was the object of his assailant.

TRIAL BY JURY. Spain is to have a new jury system, if she ever had any before, and the New York Times suggests that if it is founded upon the American system, juries should be drawn from the crestins of the Pyrenees, as idiots of established reputation. Hitherto, says the Times, men have asked for what possible purpose the cretin was created, but it is now obvious that he was provided expressly to meet the contingency of the adoption of the jury system in Spain. With a jury composed exclusively of these creatures, the Spanish murderer would feel almost as safe as though his fate were in the hands of the San Francisco jurymen who acquitted Mrs. Fair.

In the quiet garden of my life
There growth a real rose tree!
A little bird sits on the topmost bough,
And merrily singeth he,

"The sun may shine in the happy sky
Through the long and golden days,
And the sweet spring blossoms vail the trees
In fragrant pearly haze;

"In the pelting rains of autumn come,
And the weary wintry weather,
And we've nought to watch but he leaden clouds—
Sly, rose and I together.

Come rain, come shine, so that bonny bird
Not warble the cheery tune;
For while he sings to my rose and me,
To us it is always June.

And Death and Sorrow shall vainly sit
The portals of life beside,
For we know from our faith that soaring song
Through the gates of heaven flung wide!

GRANDPAPA'S STORY.

A THANKSGIVING EPISODE.

They had just risen from dinner in the old house at Eastwood. Dinah and Sally were carrying out the remnants of the feast. With regretful eyes the children watched its disappearance. They had tried all the traditionary rules, had "stood up", jumped three jumps," "walked four times round the table," and positively not another morsel could they swallow. And yet there was something said in letting those bobines bouches—those delightful halves, and quarters, and triangles of mince, and apple and pumpkin—disappear and be lost forever. The Thanksgiving Dinner for that year had become a part of the past; and I can tell you Grandmama Allen's pleasant sway was a thing of every day.

From the great turkey stuffed with oysters, which inaugurated the meal, to the tartlets of ruby cranberry, which brought it to a close, everything had that dainty, savory perfection of flavor which appertained to those fast-vanishing days of wide-mouthed fire-places, capped with crackling logs, and "bake-ovens" whose depth entombed whole regiments of loaves and pastries, and returned them in the fullness of name, brown, delicate, and "perfect"—a fragrant resurrection. Ahed the aroma of those old fashioned yands is almost a traditionary thing in these days of "modern improvements." Here and there it lingers in the far recesses of New England, and at Grandma Allen's it would linger always. No range disfigured her kitchen. A "water-back" was a thing unknown. The simple fireplace wore its ancient livery of cranes, pothooks, and jacks; and musing Dinah, old King Hickory, jollest of monarchs, presided royally. Under his sway what unimaginable cakes came to perfection! What flavorous roasts! what tempting baked beans! what delicious johnny-cakes! what Indian puddings! Forsooth! That was indeed the Golden Age of cookery.

Four generations were represented in the circle that now crew around the cheerful blaze in the "keeping-room"—from grandpapa, with his silver head, to Baby May, fast asleep in the arms of her fair young mother. The oldest grandchild, Tom, was home from his studies and daughters, with their respective wives and husbands, and their twenty-four children, to say nothing of Baby May and her proud young father, or little Will on grandfa's knee—the orphan child of that youngest son who, there was the one heavy shadow on the happy home. But to-night no shadow was visible. The flickering firelight fell only upon faces at their brightest, whether in the bloom of childhood or the comely serenity of middle life; on bright eyes and lips, on kindly smiles and smiles. All shone with the cheerful influence of the anniversary. The children were grateful of fun and frolic, yet secretly hewing their own childhood for an evening. And there, in the shadow of the curtains, father Larry and Edith had betaken themselves, a little drama was going on—a fantasia suited to the season—which, if a guess might be hazarded, would timely, amidst other annivesaries, hint the earnest purposes of a life-time.

"Grandpa, tell us a story," demanded one of the listlessness as night drew on.

"Good for you, Tot!" exclaimed her brother.

"Yes, grandpapa! grandpa tells such nice stories!" chorused the others; while at Nellie's putting her soft hand to the wrinkled cheek, joined in with the "Please", which she so often had found irresistible.

Now his "story" of grandpa's was one of the features of the Eastwood Thanksgivings. Edith at her "undergraduate" Jack, the Giant-killer, formerly, when the little people were stilly; and nowadays it was a stirring tale to please the boys, or some German legend adapted to the occasion. Just year it was the adventures of a drummer-boy and the Battle of Antietam. And now as grandpapa settled himself in a comfortable position on his lap and gave a preparatory "Hem!" the whole party, old and young clustered a little nearer, and prepared to be attentive.

There was a sly twinkle in grandpa's eyes as he begin:

"This time, children, I am going to tell you a love story."

"Hear, hear!" said the aunties to each other, with a flit in the window, possessing himself of pretty Edith's hand, gave its pressure with a bright blush at her tormentors.

"Yes, a love story. Once upon a time—say a hundred years ago, or thereabouts—there was a young man whose name was Tom, and he lived in New York. He was rather a jolly fellow, too, for he had no home, and had lodgings which were not very nice; but he minded it less because he had to work for what a home was, and besides, he was very busy all the time.

"What was he busy at?" shouted Jack, who was famous for asking questions.

"He was a clerk in a great wholesale warehouse."

"What did they sell?"

"Now, Jack, you mustn't keep interrupting," cries the other children.

"They sold machinery Jack; and farmers' tools—spades and harrows and such like—and a lot of inventions and patents; what are known now-a-days as Yankee notions."

"Why that's just like Clarke & Ambler," cried Jack; but somebody hushed him up. Grandpa only laughed. Clarke & Ambler were the successors of the house in which all this business had been made.

"As I said before, he was very busy; for doing business with a young lady then was not the easy thing it is now. Besides, he was one of the laborious kind, and, therefore, was a great deal to do; and by working hard he had laid up some money, and what was better, earned the good opinion and confidence of his employers. There was no mistake of his becoming a junior partner in a year or two; and altogether he felt the world was going smoothly with him.

"He hadn't many relations, this young man. His parents were dead, and he had no aunts nor uncles. There was a first cousin of his father living in New England but he had never seen him or any of his family. But just at this time his daughters came to town to make a visit to a friend."

"What were their names, grandpapa?" asked little Nell, in her soft voice.

"Well, pet, we'll name one of them Edith and the other Ellen. They always called each other 'Dittie' and 'Nelly.' Edith was the prettier. She had long light hair and blue eyes and a fair skin, and altogether was just about the sort of a girl young fellows picture themselves falling in love with some day.—I'll warrant you the young fellow I'm telling you about did, so the very first time he saw her."

"And was Nelly pretty, too?" asked the Nelly on grandpapa's knee.

"Well," continued grandpa, in a considering tone, "not exactly. She had brown hair and eyes, and a trim little figure, and looked altogether good and honest and sweet. Still, I guess most young men would have given her sister ten glances where they gave her one. At all events, my young man did; for he looked at Dittie all the time, and hardly saw Nellie at all.

"There were not many places of amusement in those days, but such as they were, they seemed very brilliant to these country girls, who had never been in the city before. And you rarely see a cousin so polite as Cousin Tom—so ready to devote all his spare time to taking them to this place and that place, and hunting up shows and entertainments for them. They wrote home to their father how kind he had been; their letters were full of him; and in return 'papa' wrote and sent his regards, and cousin Tom must surely come and spend Thanksgiving with them in New Hampshire. You may be sure Cousin Tom was ready enough to accept the invitation, for he had never seen girls so pretty or so nice before; and by this time had quite made up his mind to fall in love with his cousin Edith.

"It was all arranged. The young ladies went home late in October, and the day before Thanksgiving, if nothing prevented, Tom was to be present himself in person, the place they lived at in New Hampshire."

"What place was it, grandpa?" persisted Jack.

"Suppose we call it Westfield," replied grandpa with a twinkle. "As it happened, this young clerk's employer had some business to transacted in the town of Westfield, twelve miles from Westfield—and so, Tom being a young man, he deal up to expect it to him, only, as I mincingly happened, this business must be attended to the Monday before Thanksgiving.

"'But never mind that, said the head of the firm. "I'll give you a fortnight's leave, and you had better be off next Thursday; that will bring you to Elgin on Saturday night. You can do the business Monday, and be free to go to your friends by Monday evening. Then you need not report yourself here till next Thursday week. How will that answer?'

"'It answers' wonderfully well except for one little thing, and that was. Tom did not like the idea of presenting himself, at a strangers house two days before he was expected. However, there was no time to write. Mails traveled rarely to that part of the country.—'There'll be a tavern or something, Tom said to himself. 'I'll go there and see how the land lies before I make my appearance.'

"So in the best of spirits he started for his forty-eight hours of staging. Ah, boys, you may talk as much as you like of the advantages of steam, but there never was anything equal to those old-fashioned stage rides, when as in Tom's case, it was the height of Indian summer, and the country all gold and misty, and the air soft and balmy, with just the little twang of last night's frost, in it to give a zest. Four good horses and a seat on top!—phew! you'll never see anything like it. Well, Tom had a grand time, got to Elgin safely, did his business Monday morning, and the same afternoon just as the sun was setting, rolled into Westfield in a farmer's wagon he had hired to bring him over.

The wagon let him down in front of a blacksmith's shop, and drove off, leaving him to shift for himself. Of course, the first thing he asked for was the inn; but there was none it appeared. He felt at a loss what to do, and seeing just then a pleasant looking elderly, well-dressed man jogging past in a substantial gig, he concluded to stop him and make some inquiries.

"Can you tell me, Sir, if there is any place in this village where I can get a night's lodging?"

"The stranger took a look at him, and answered, Yankee fashion, with another question.

"'You are a traveller, then?'
